Reading Comprehension & Textbook (20 marks)

Q.1/A- Read the following passage carefully:

Mining is the extraction of valuable minerals or geological materials from the Earth. There are four main methods of mining: underground, surface, placer and in-situ. The type of mining method used depends on the kind of resource that is being targeted for extraction, the deposit's location and the capacity of each method to extract the resource. Mined materials are needed to construct roads and hospitals, to build automobiles and houses, to make computers and satellites, to generate electricity, and to provide the goods and services that consumers enjoy. The disadvantages of mining include harm to air pollution, water pollution, loss of usable land and destruction of animal habitat. Mining continues to be a dangerous activity. Not only are there accidents, but exposure to dust and toxins, along with stress from the working environment or managerial pressures, give rise to a range of diseases that affect miners.

Reading Comprehension & Textbook (20 marks)

Q.1/A- Read the following passage carefully:

Pollution is one of the biggest problems nowadays. There are many kinds of pollution that make life difficult, unhappy and unhealthy. The first kind is "air pollution". It is caused by factories and cars sending out smoke. This kind is commonly found in industrial and big cities. In such cities, air is not clean and unhealthy. The other kind is "water pollution". Factories pour chemicals into nearest seas and rivers. It is also caused by tankers spilling oil or towns pouring waste.

Those poisonous chemicals and waste make water dirty and unhealthy to drink. They also kill fish that people eat. Many nations work to stop pollution and they succeed. Air and water in their cities have become much cleaner and they now breathe fresh air and drink clean water.

Now answer or complete FOUR of the following.

Reading Comprehension & Textbook (20 Marks)Q.1/A- Read the following passage carefully:

Food preservation includes several techniques and methods help in maintenance the quality and extending the life period of the food. Canning, drying (dehydration), freezing and gas packaging are the main methods of food preservation. Canning involves sealing food in airtight containers after heating to destroy microorganisms. Drying is removing moisture from food by various ways such as air drying, sun drying, or by dehydrators, it is commonly used to dry fruits, vegetables, meat, and herbs. Freezing means slow down microbial activity by lowering the temperature around -18°C (0°F) or lower. Freezing helps preserve the nutritional value, texture and flavor of food. The gas packaging method includes replacing the air surrounding the food product with a protective gas, usually nitrogen or carbon dioxide, it is used for packing salads, fresh meat and certain snack food.

(12 Marks)Now answer FOUR of the following questions:

1. What are the main methods of food preservation?
2. What does canning involve?

Reading Comprehension & Textbook (20 Marks)

Q.1/A-Read the following passage carefully:

A clean environment is essential for a healthy life. Pollution harms the air, water and land, making it difficult for people and animals to live safely. Each person has a role in protecting the environment and reducing pollution. One of the best ways to keep the environment clean is by reducing waste. Instead of throwing away plastic bottles and bags, people can recycle them. Recycling helps reduce pollution by turning old materials into new products. Planting trees is another way to keep the environment clean, trees absorb carbon dioxide and produce oxygen, making the air fresher. People should also avoid littering and always throw trash in bins. Using public transportation, walking or riding bicycles instead of driving cars can also reduce air pollution.

Now answer FOUR of the following questions :

1. Why is a clean environment important?
2. How does recycling help reduce pollution?
3. Why is planting trees important for the environment?
4. Where should people throw trash?
